SING OF HIM, THE LORD

2. Full it is of wonder,this his work of love.'Tis not here but yonder,in his courts above,all will be made known thatnow mysterious is;then his saints will own thatpower and love are his.

5. Better this, far better, than the worldling's mirth: sweeter, too, far sweeter, than the joys of earth: they who love their master, will approve of this; they will hold the faster, to himself and his.

Jane 3. Happy day, when he will bring bis people near; what they are to be, will then to all appear;"Sons of God" they are not owned on earth or known; scorned of men, they care not, Christ will bless his own.

6. They will think more gladly, of their home above; they will part less sadly with the friends they love, in their walk more steady while they live below; and, when called, more ready to their Lord to go.

4. Good it is to drink of Christ's own cup below.
This will make them think of
where they are to go,
there to be for ever,
with him where he is,
and to sorrow never,
there's a charm in this.

7. Sing of him, and spare not, join the blessèd throng; sing of him, and care not, who may blame your song.Sing of him victorious, Prophet, Priest, and King, sing of him, for glorious is the name we sing.
