

- But beware; do not dare to trust thy wicked heart. false it is; look to this, or else expect to smart.
- Christ alone keeps his own; he keeps them safe from harm. In his care, safe they are: for mighty is his arm.
- 4. His is love, far above what human tongue can teach; when we try, 'tis too high for human thought to reach.
- Happy day, when we may behold the Saviour near; then to be safe, and free from sin, from pain, from fear.
