IS IT NOT GOD APPOINTS IT SO?

2. He sought and found me when a foe, he might have cast me down to hell, but love prevailed, and well I know the love of God no tongue can tell.

3. If he could save an enemy, adopt and make his foe a child, what goodness may I hope to see, when pardoned thus and reconciled?

4. If he should cross my stubborn will, to wean my heart from earthly things, shall I repine and murmur still, nor learn the lesson sorrow brings?

5. Forbid it, Lord! I come to thee, my weakness and my wants thou know'st, from proud impatience set me free, and make me like whate'er thou dost.
