THE LORD, "THE ONLY WISE", IS HE

- 2. I wonder when I think on this; I wonder much that love like his should fail to move a heart of stone, a heart as stubborn as my own.
- 3. With love like this before my eyes, that fills an angel with surprise, my heart, with grief and shame I own, is still too like a heart of stone.
- 4. O Lord, thy Spirit's pow'r alone can take away this "heart of stone"; and in its room another place, "a heart of flesh", that owns thy grace.
- 5. Then let thy promised grace be giv'n, the earnest of a future heav'n; where all who love thee, there shall be for ever happy, Lord, with thee.
- 6. To thee I look, to thee alone;to thee, to whom all hearts are known;to walk with thee my soul aspires,O satisfy my soul's desires.
