SHALL I BE ASHAMED OF JESUS?

2. Few would die to save another, yet there might be love like this; some, to save a friend or brother, might resign their life for his; but the Lord his kindness shows, while he dies to save his foes.

4. Lord thou know'st how oft already I have been ashamed of thee: false I've been, and most unsteady, from the cross too prone to flee: yes, my Lord, I tell my shame, oft I've blushed to own thy name.

3. Others may profess to love us, and may seem to be our friends; but when trials come to prove us, then alas! their friendship ends: Jesus is what others seem; shall I be ashamed of him?

5. O forgive the past, nor let me ever be so base again; when temptation shall beset me, Lord, be near, be near me then; teach me to confess thy name, careless who approve or blame.
