THE CHRISTIAN'S HAPPY STATE

2. He can, whene'er he chooses, approach a throne of grace, for God not one refuses who humbly seeks his face.Whatever may betide him, wherever he may roam, his Father will provide him a happy welcome home.

3. He sees assembled round him to serve him and obey, the things which once had bound him, and held with cruel sway; for all things in creation are ordered, night and day, to further his salvation, and help him on his way.

4. And when his brief probation and term of life is spent, he builds his expectation on Christ's own Testament: to all that love and serve him, a place at God's right hand, a heritage and portion in his dear fatherland.

Words: Carl Johann Philipp Spitta. Translation: Richard Massie. Music: Johannes Thomas Rüegg. Copyright © 2016 Johannes Thomas Rüegg. Source: www.christmysong.com/140/