GOOD AND FAITHFUL ARE THY WORDS

- 2. When thy people are distressed, harassed by the foe, and pressed, whither should thy people flee, whither, Saviour, but to thee?
- 3. Words that spirit are, and life, cheer them in their mortal strife; when thy people are oppressed, then do they afford them rest.
- 4. Then it is thy words declare whence they come, and what they are; sinners, in the trying hour, know their worth, and feel their pow'r.
- 5. Why? Because they are thy words, "King of kings, and Lord of lords"; and thy spirit gives them pow'r, fitted to the trying hour.
- 6. Whither, then, but unto thee, whither should the helpless flee? Pow'r and grace to thee belong, hence our safety, hence our song.
