THE REPENTANCE NOT TO BE REPENTED OF

- 2. How did then refresh us thy words sweet and precious:

 "Come, ye souls distressed, come with all your burden; I will grant you pardon,

 I will give you rest."

 Thou hast died, been crucified, and procured us free salvation by thy death and passion.
- 3. Such a deep contrition for our sad condition waken in our hearts, that, our danger feeling, we may seek the healing which thy blood imparts, nor reject, or through neglect, and through our procrastination, lose so great salvation.

Words: Carl Johann Philipp Spitta. Translation: Richard Massie. Music: Johannes Thomas Rüegg. Copyright © 2017 Johannes Thomas Rüegg. Source: www.christmysong.com/1485/