"THE SPIRIT OF THE TRUTH" IS HE

2. To comfort sent, and sent to bless, when he is present so art thou; the saints are never "comfortless", they never were, nor are they now.

6. Of unity the source alone, inspirer he of peace and love; his presence and his power we own, the holy and pacific Dove.

3. Nor shall thy people ever be without a comforter and guide; the Spirit sent from heaven by thee shall with them to the end abide.

7. 'Tis his, O Lord, to take of thine, and show it to thy people here;'tis his upon their souls to shine, and bring the word of promise near.

4, The word of promise makes it sure, no pledge but this we have or need; possessing this we feel secure, for faithful is thy word indeed.

8. The sacred office that he bears, a pledge of every blessing is: in all their troubles and their fears, thy people may rejoice in this.

5. This privilege be ours, O Lord, the presence of "the Comforter"; expounder of the sacred word, without him we are sure to err.

9. To us the Comforter is given, with all his grace and all his powers; an earnest of the joys of heaven; this grace we ask, this grace be ours.
