

- 2. Jesus let him thy model be: more like him every hour become; in him thy true example see; oh, never from his footsteps roam!
- 3. What lies before thee here on earth, of joy or grief, of good or ill, none knows save he who gave thee birth; he keepeth and will keep thee still.
- 4. Clasp thou his hand in dark or light; take him for thy eternal Friend; from fears and foes, by day or night, he'll guard thee to the glorious end.
- 5. Oh, love him! for he loveth well; let him with love thy spirit fill; how much he loveth none can tell, and to the end he loveth still.
- 6. He wants thee to be all his own; he claims an undivided heart; he seeks to reign in thee alone: oh, never from his side depart!
- 7. Give him but this, and all is well; the fullness of his joy is thine; in thee he shall for ever dwell, and in his glory thou shalt shine.
- 8. No joy like his on earth below for the young spirit seeking bliss, and in no other canst thou know the fullness of a love like his.
