

- 2. Though once a man of grief and shame, yet now he fills a throne, and bears the greatest, sweetest name, that earth or heaven has known.
- 3. Grace flies before, and love attends his steps where'er he goes; though none can see him but his friends, and they were once his foes.
- 4. He speaks obedient to his call, our warm affections move: did he but shine alike on all, then all alike would love.
- 5. Then love in every heart would reign, and war would cease to roar; and cruel and bloodthirsty men would thirst for blood no more.
- 6. Such Jesus is, and such his grace, oh, may he shine on you!And tell him, when you see his face, I long to see him too.
