

- 2. Pray for thy friends: let the full heart go out for all thou lovest here; forget not one: count o'er the precious names; nor let a doubt obtrude that God upon thy cry can frown.
- 3. For the dear church of God thy prayers prolong, the one wide family of God below, the little flock of every tribe and tongue; all one in faith, in love, in joy and woe.
- 4. For all the many members of that throng, and for each fellow-pilgrim lone and faint; known or unknown, the feeble or the strong, for each hard-pressed and sorrow-stricken saint.
- 5. Plead for the bleeding heart and burdened soul, plead for the weary and the wounded here; ask that the God of health would make them whole, and the great Comforter dispense his cheer.
- 6. Plead for the weary earth, upon whose breast ages of evil and unrighteousness have lain, unbroken by one hour of rest; plead for the hast'ning of the age of peace.
- 7. Plead for the advent of the promised King, the reign of heavenly glory here on earth, the budding of the world's eternal spring, the coming of creation's second birth.
